To Whom It May Concern:

We are delighted to certify the success of Akshat Baranwal's completed internship with our business intelligence firm during the months of September 2022 through November 2022, where he played an integral role in our software development projects. Akshat effectively collaborated with our team to create, design, and test customized software solutions that fulfilled our clients' unique needs and requirements.

Throughout the internship, he demonstrated exceptional skills in frontend development, utilizing HTML5, CSS, JavaScript, and React Framework to create engaging user interfaces that enhanced the overall user experience. He also displayed an aptitude for identifying and resolving software issues that arose during development and various phases of deployment, employing a variety of troubleshooting techniques and tools to ensure optimal performance.

Moreover, he contributed significantly to the documentation and communication of project progress, frequently presenting findings and recommendations to team members and clients. He displayed exemplary communication and collaboration skills and effectively worked within a team environment to deliver high-quality software solutions.

Overall, he made significant contributions to our firm during his internship, and we have no doubt that he will continue to excel in his future endeavors.

Best,
